WDS PHYSICIANS LEADERS
MENTORS
Women's Dermatologic Society

Dear Colleague,

On behalf of the Forum Committee and the WDS Board of Directors, we wish you a warm Arizona welcome to this year's WDS Forum at The Scott Resort and Spa in Scottsdale, Arizona April 8-10, 2022. We're delighted that you've chosen to spend your weekend with us and with your colleagues, expanding your knowledge, catching up with old friends and meeting new ones, networking and relaxing.

WDS is dedicated to helping women dermatologists fulfill their greatest potential and assisting them in making a contribution to our specialty and to society. The mission of the WDS is to be the premier organization cultivating personal and professional development of women in dermatology, dedicated to excellence in patient care, mentorship, volunteerism and leadership. You'll most certainly find a bit of all of these in this year's program.

This year's Forum will address implicit bias, refresh your knowledge and expand your awareness of women's health topics, discuss insights into balancing work and motherhood, career paths, and even give you a few pearls to aid you in practice and give you a bit of joy with stories, all capped off with a service project. An amazing amount packed into one weekend!

So, relax, unwind and be prepared for a weekend of learning, sharing, laughing and caring. We look forward to meeting each of you and enjoying this experience with you.

Cheers!

Welcome and Introduction to The WDS Forum

Julie Hodge, MD, MPH

Hodge Dermatology

A graduate of Stanford University, Dr. Julie Hodge received her medical degree and master's in public health from Tulane University in New Orleans. She completed an internship in Internal Medicine at Ochsner Foundation Hospital in New Orleans and a residency program in dermatology and dermatologic surgery at Tulane Medical Center. After 13 years of group practice with Fullerton Internal Medicine Center, she ran a solo private practice for 14 years. In March 2018 she became part of West Dermatology. Her practice encompasses medical, surgical and cosmetic dermatology. Dr. Hodge is a Volunteer Associate Clinical Professor at the University of California at Irvine. She has served on the boards of many dermatology organizations including the American Academy of Dermatology, the Women's Dermatologic Society, the American Society for Mohs Surgery, the Dermatology Foundation and the Noah Worcester Society. She is a past President of the Dermatologic Society of Orange County and of the Pacific Dermatologic Society. She is also a member of the American Society of Dermatologic Surgery and the American Society for Laser Medicine and Surgery.

Kathleen Hectorne, MD

Mayo Clinic

Dr. Kathleen Hectorne received her bachelor's degree in Music Education and her medical degree from the University of Minnesota. While at Mayo Clinic completing her Internal Medicine residency, she worked on a diazolidinyl urea project with Dr. Anthony Fransway, who inspired her to also train in Dermatology. Subsequently Dr. Hectorne has held a joint position as consultant/clinical instructor at Mayo Clinic and its nearest Mayo Clinic Health System satellite in Austin, MN. Teaching both the Mayo Clinic Family Medicine residents while in Austin and the Dermatology residents when in Rochester has been a 'constant source of renewal and joy.' As a community dermatologist for over 25 years in Austin she has had the opportunity to develop lasting relationships with her patients and their families, who now include 4 generations. Dr. Hectorne has been active in the AAD's Leadership Development Steering Committee, Leadership Institute, and Leadership Forums. A Past President of the WDS, she has served on the WDS BOD and has chaired several WDS Forums and Membership Enrichment Leadership Development meetings. Dr. Hectorne has also served on the Board of Directors of the Noah Worcester Society. An avid dog lover, Dr. Hectorne also enjoys playing flute and piano, swimming, and traveling with friends and family.

Keynote Speaker: Implicit Bias: Name It, Claim It, Tame It. Positive Steps We Can All Take to Live in a More Equitable and Just World.

Andre Koen, MD, MS

Vice President of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion, Revo Health

Andre Koen is an energetic presenter, a powerful communicator, and a dynamic teacher. There are many words that describe him. The most illustrative is, "Andre, the Enkindled Spirit". Andre is a diversity trainer in Minnesota. He provides face-to-face and online courses on diversity education, anti-racism training and team building.

Most of his clients include professionals needing continuing education credits. Andre helps organizations manage and train staff, employees, and clients on diversity issues without blame, fault or guilt. His organization understands that people are doing the best they can with what they have, yet encourages them to examine themselves, explore other cultures, and become allies for others. Koen works to move people's behaviors not by pushing them or making them feel guilty. His courses teach individuals to dissect, analyze, and making meaning of the issues that challenge us in a fair, balanced way that people can hear and understand. He motivates individuals to create something collaboratively.

Total Women's Health: Living with Viral Pandemics-COVID and AIDS

Brook Choulet, MD

Child Psychiatrist and Founder of Choulet Wellness

Brook Choulet, MD is a board-certified concierge psychiatrist, founder of Choulet Wellness in Scottsdale, Arizona, physician business coach, co-founder of La Jolla Concierge Psychiatry, and a licensed real estate agent in Arizona. Dr. Choulet was raised in San Diego, California, and graduated from La Jolla Country Day School. She completed a Bachelor's Degree in Liberal Arts and her medical degree at the University of Missouri Kansas City's rigorous six year BA/MD program. Dr. Choulet obtained her medical degree at the age of 24 and pursued training in General Psychiatry at the University of Arizona College of Medicine Phoenix. Dr. Choulet continued her training in Child and Adolescent Psychiatry through Creighton University's fellowship program in Phoenix, Arizona. She is currently in her last year of the program and had the honor of being nominated as Vice Chief Fellow. Following in the footsteps of her mother and grandfather, she will be a third-generation adult, child and adolescent psychiatrist.

Dr. Choulet started her private practice in 2020, and within a year, she hired over 6 other clinicians to join her. She is rapidly growing both practices in Arizona and California. As a business coach, Dr. Choulet has a passion for helping other physicians identify their career goals and grow their private practices. Dr. Choulet is an expert on time management, as she started and expanded both her practices while still in fellowship. Dr. Choulet is also a licensed real estate agent in Arizona and an active real estate investor. When she's not seeing patients or running her practice, she is helping other physicians buy and sell real estate.

Virginia S. Hinshaw, MD

Virologist and Chancellor Emeritus of the University of Hawai'i at Mānoa

Dr. Virginia S. Hinshaw is a science nerd with a wild sense of humor and a love of adventure. Whether conducting research, teaching students, swimming with great white sharks, leading a university, or throwing a javelin, her laugh is her constant companion. Her passion for research and education has taken her around the world chasing influenza viruses and across the nation serving in university leadership positions. She is Chancellor Emeritus of the University of Hawai'i at Mānoa. She recently published a book on Amazon entitled "My Heart Smiles" based on her life experiences as an audacious academic.

Larry York, PharmD, BCIDP, BCPS, AAHIVP

Clinical Pharmacist in Infectious Disease and HIV/AIDS at the University of Arizona College of Medicine

Larry York, PharmD, BCIDP, BCPS, AAHIVP is a clinical infectious diseases pharmacist who has been working with the Petersen HIV clinics since 2016. He is part of a collaborative care team approach to patient management in working with people living with HIV as well as individuals seeking HIV pre- and post-exposure prophylaxis.

Additionally, Dr. York works with an infectious diseases physician to deliver HIV and general infectious diseases care for the department of corrections via telemedicine.

Motherhood and Medicine Panel: Key Insights into Balancing Work and Life

Rhonda Farah, MD

Practice Setting/Career Path Panel DiscussionBethanee Schlosser, MD, PhD

Associate Medical Director, Immunology-Clinical Development at AbbVie

Dr. Bethanee Schlosser joined AbbVie's Immunology Clinical Development as Associate Medical Director on June 29, 2021. As Associate Medical Director, Dr. Schlosser works to advance the scientific and medical knowledge of AbbVie pharmaceutical products and associated disease states with the goal of improving standards of care and patient health outcomes. As a member of the Immunology Clinical Development team, Dr. Schlosser focuses on the integration and advancement of scientific evidence through clinical trial design and execution and has the primary responsibility for study design and conduct for AbbVie-sponsored phase 1-4 and non-interventional studies. As the Therapeutic Area Medical Director for a given clinical trial, Dr. Schlosser is the primary individual responsible for ensuring the accurate execution of the clinical study protocol and the maintenance of subject safety.

As a medical dermatologist focusing on inflammatory skin diseases, Dr. Schlosser has dedicated her career to advancing the field of women's skin health and to improving the lives of women and girls through education, clinical care, and investigative research. For more than twelve years, Dr. Schlosser served as full-time faculty in the Departments of Dermatology and Obstetrics/Gynecology at Northwestern University, serving as Director of the Women's Skin Health Program, Vulvar Mucosal Specialty Clinic, and Skin Concerns in Pregnancy Clinic, providing both inpatient consultations and outpatient care.

Dr. Schlosser hails from Pennsylvania and attended Bucknell University. She earned her MD and her PhD in Cell and Molecular Biology from Pennsylvania State University College of Medicine. Dr. Schlosser then completed an internship at Mayo Clinic and her residency in Dermatology at Emory University.

Dr. Schlosser has a long track record of involvement in organized medicine and currently serves in leadership roles for various medical organizations including the Women's Dermatologic Society, the American Acne and Rosacea Society, and the American Academy of Dermatology.

Ashley Wysong, MD, MS

University of Nebraska Department of Dermatology Founding Chair and William W. Bruce MD Distinguished Chair of Dermatology

Dr. Ashley Wysong is the University of Nebraska Department of Dermatology Founding Chair and William W. Bruce MD Distinguished Chair of Dermatology. She is an accomplished leader, a nationally recognized Mohs micrographic surgeon, a translational skin cancer researcher, a skilled lecturer, and a dedicated mentor. Dr.

Wysong obtained her master's degree in Epidemiology in the Stanford University's Department of Health Research and Policy and her medical degree at Duke University School of Medicine where she was valedictorian of her medical school class. Dr. Wysong completed her residency in dermatology at Stanford University where she was elected to serve as chief resident. Her fellowship in procedural dermatology and Mohs micrographic surgery was completed at Scripps Clinic under the direction of Dr. Hugh Greenway in Mohs surgery, Dr. Victor Ross in laser and cosmetic dermatology, and Dr. Leland Housman in veins. Prior to joining UNMC, Dr. Wysong was Director of Mohs & Dermatologic Surgery at the University of Southern California and LAC+USC County Hospital.

Dr. Wysong has a special interest and expertise in locally advanced and metastatic squamous cell carcinoma and basal cell carcinoma, as well as treatment of rare skin tumors. As the Director of the Skin Cancer Program at the Fred and Pamela Buffett Cancer Center she is developing multidisciplinary programs in melanoma/sarcoma, high-risk non-melanoma skin cancer, merkel cell carcinoma, cutaneous lymphoma, and supportive oncodermatology. Dr. Wysong is a cancer epidemiologist and translational scientist with a broad background in clinical, translational and outcomes-based research in high-risk squamous cell carcinoma and is widely published. She is particularly interested in identifying novel genetic mutations in skin cancer that can help predict which tumors can be cured by surgery alone, and which tumors are at higher risk for metastasis and death. Dr. Wysong is active in numerous national societies and currently holds leadership positions as a member of the Board of Directors for the Women's Dermatologic Society (WDS, 2018-2022), for the American College of Mohs Surgery (ACMS, 2020-2023) and Board of Trustees for the Dermatology Foundation. She is Chair of the service & education council for the WDS and serves as a member on committees for the ACMS, WDS, ASDS, American Professors of Dermatology (APD) and ACGME.

Lara Rosenbaum, MD, MHS
